

BOTH CONFIDENT OF THE VICTORY

DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN LEADERS CLAIM THEY WILL CARRY THE STATE ON TUESDAY.

BETTING FAVORS MCGOVERN

Republican Candidate Has Best of It
According to the "Wise Ones"—
State Bancroft For Defeat.

Milwaukee, Nov. 5.—Chairman Davies of the democratic state central committee this morning stated that he was confident that Schmitz would be elected. He figured that Milwaukee and Milwaukee county would give him ten thousand plural-ties to go into the state with.
Chairman Krumpke of the republican headquarters placed McGovern's plurality at thirty-five thousand at the least and thought the whole ticket with the exception of Hancock would be even greater. The betting here favors McGovern and is against Hancroft.

Frear Satisfied.
Madison, Nov. 5.—Secretary of State James Frear returned to Janesville today after an exhaustive speaking campaign throughout the south and eastern part of the state. He advanced his belief that the republican ticket will receive large pluralities in the state voting next Tuesday with the exception of Levi H. Hancock, Republican nominee for attorney general.
Frear was scheduled to speak in Dane county but was forced to rest on account of a severe throat affection.

As to Betts.
Betting on the results of the coming election here is active today. Even money is offered that McGovern will receive a plurality of 75,000. Ten to one is offered that Schmitz will not be elected. That Henry Cochems, candidate for Congress in the Fifth District will be elected, several wagers of three to two, were placed here today. The same conditions are offered that Levi H. Hancock will be defeated for attorney general.

Hudnall's Expenses.
George B. Hudnall, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor in the primaries, today filed a statement with the secretary of state declaring he spent $377 for campaign expenses.
$419 of this amount, he declared was contributed by friends.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 5.—Statements re-

McKinley says he is confident the republicans will retain control by a fair working majority.

In New York State.
New York, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Dix by at least 100,000 is the prediction of Chas-min Rodie of the democratic executive committee, on the probable result of the election on the governorship.
On the other hand, the republican committee claims Stimson's election by 90,000 and that the state ticket would have over 100,000.

Observed Next Monday.

can read Plattdeutsch, or who are acquainted with English translations from the Low German, will be interested in the celebration next Monday of the centennial anniversary of the birth of Fritz Reuter, the famous humorist, sketch writer and representative of realism in German literature. Of all the German direct writers probably none has been so successful in winning the hearts of his countrymen as the famous son of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.
From his native Mecklenburg Reuter went in early youth to Jena to complete his education. During a riot in Frankfurt in 1833 he was accused of political agitation, arrested and condemned to death.
The sentence was commuted first to thirty years and finally to seven years' imprisonment. After being confined in various fortresses till 1850, he resumed legal studies at Heldelberg. For some years afterward he lived on a farm, managing his father's estate. It was not until after 1850 that he became known as a writer. His sketches, poems and other literary work make up a total of fifteen volumes. He died in 1874.

state and congressional elections will form the staple of news and discussion throughout the United States.

the country but has its own contest of importance, while a general interest will be the results of the elec-and the gubernatorial contests in New York, Ohio and several other states where the choice of the next governor is likely to have an important bearing upon national politics or ersary of the discovery of the Gunpowder Plot was celebrated by the youthful population of England today with the customary pranks and festivities. The day is popularly known as Guy Fawkes Day. It was known as Nov. 5, 1605, that the memorable conspiracy for springing a mine under the house of parliament, and destroying the three estates of the realm—king, lords and commons—was discovered. The plot was prepared by Robert Catesby, and several Roman Catholic persons of rank were joined in the enterprise. Guy Fawkes was discovered in the vaults under the House of Lords preparing a train of 100 barrels of powder to be fired the next day. Fawkes and many of his co-conspirators were executed. The vault, called Guy Fawkes' cellar, remained in the late houses of parliament till 1825, when it was converted into offices.

DISCOVER MORPHINE IN STOMACH OF THE DECEASED FARMER

Question of What Caused Death of Isaac Isaacson Is Not Yet Decided.

Mystery which surrounded the death of Isaac Isaacson, the Clinton farmer, is not yet solved. Before the coroner's jury in Beloit this morning Professor E. G. Smith testified that he had found traces of a considerable amount of morphine in the stomach of Isaacson, but that he had not been able to examine it to the amount.

Dr. Helm and Dr. E. G. Brown who performed the autopsy testified that they had made a careful examination of the brain and internal organs of the deceased and that they had found the right side of the heart clogged with blood, an abnormal color to the face, and other symptoms indicating that Isaacson met his death by poison.

Sheriff Scheibel testified that he had examined the registers in the drug stores of Janesville, Clinton, Sharon and Delavan but could find no place where Mr. or Mrs. Isaacson had procured poison. Chief of Police Quellman of Beloit testified that he had examined the poison registers of the Beloit drug stores with a like result.

Other witnesses who were called were Mr. and Mrs. Munson, Geo.
Suegmiller, Postmaster for the city of Beloit, Dr. Hamilton, Edmund Nelson and others who all testified to the effect that there had been more or less trouble between Mr. and Mrs.
Isaacson over various matters, especially over their two sons who are insane. Mrs. Isaacson had opposed the commitment of the sons to the Insane asylum.

It was further brought out in the hearing that Mr. Isaacson lived in fear and dread of his wife and believed her to be insane.

The jury desired that further investigation be made and consequently the inquest was postponed until the 20th of November.

COLORADO HAS EIGHT TICKETS

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE AN ISSUE IN FOUR STATES.

IF DRYS WIN IN FLORIDA

South Will Be Solid for Prohibition—Triangular Fight for Govern-ship in Pennsylvania.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—Elections will be held in forty-four states next Tuesday. Maine and Vermont have already elected their officers and members of the next congress—the sixty-second. Arkansas and Georgia have named state officers only and will select representatives at the coming election. In twenty-seven states governors are to be elected, together with other state officers. The only states that do not choose governors this year are Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Montana, North Carolina, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia. In nearly all of the states justices of the supreme court or minor state officers are to be chosen.

The term of thirty United States senators—twenty-four republicans and six democrats—expire March 3, 1911.
The present senate is composed of twenty-nine republicans and thirty-three democrats. The six democratic vacancies will be filled by democrats. Of the twenty-four republican vacancies the democrats have already gained one, in Maine, where a democrat will succeed Senator Eugene Hale.

Members of the national house of representatives are to be elected. The present house is composed of 217 republicans and 174 democrats. Vermont has already re-elected her two republican representatives. In the recent election in Maine two of the four republican representatives were replaced by democrats.

As usual, there is one ticket, the democratic in South Carolina. Colorado leads the year with the greatest number of state tickets—eight. They are the republican, democratic, socialist, prohibition, socialist-republican, platform democratic, citizens and progressive republican. Pennsylvania comes next, with seven tickets in the field.
The prohibition party has tickets in twenty-eight states and the socialist party in a number of states. The American party has one ticket in Utah.

Some of the amendments or proposals that will be voted on in several of the states are of general interest. In Oregon, the pioneer of the initiative and referendum, a score of measures will be submitted for the consideration of the electors next Tuesday. Missouri will vote on eleven proposed constitutional amendments and the Colorado ballot contains five.
Mississippi will vote on proposed radical changes in its judiciary system and on a proposal to do away with the so-called "special" session of the legislature, held during the second biennial period of a gubernatorial term, for the consideration of revenue and appropriation bills.

In several states the proposal to adopt state-wide prohibition is the paramount issue. If Florida votes in the affirmative it will mean a solid "dry" south. If Missouri adopts the measure it will abolish the sale of intoxicating liquor in St. Louis, the fourth largest city of the country. It is a first time in many years since a city of the first class has been menaced with such a restriction.

Reversing the usual order of things, Oklahoma electors will vote on a constitutional amendment granting the right of suffrage to women.

In several states the gubernatorial contests are of absorbing interest.
This is particularly true of New York, where the participation of Colonel Roosevelt in the campaign has served to arouse nationwide interest in the election. The result in Ohio is also awaited with keen interest, partly because it is the home state of President Taft and partly because of the general belief that the reelection of Governor Lincoln will put him in first place in the race for the democratic presidential nomination in 1912.

The triangular fight for the governorship of Pennsylvania is also of interest. As a protest against "boss" rule many republicans and democrats have bolted their party nominees and under the caption of the Keystone party are endeavoring to elect an independent ticket headed by former State Treasurer William H. Berry for governor.

The situation in Tennessee is also attracting attention outside the state.
The faction in the democratic party opposing Governor Patterson has nominated D. W. Hooper, the republican nominee for governor, Governor Patterson, after receiving a recommendation, withdrew from the race in the interests of harmony and was replaced at the head of the democratic ticket by Senator Robert L. Taylor.

A-Regular and Welcome Medical Visitor.

When a physician has demonstrated that, in addition to possessing rare skill in his capacity, he is worthy of the implicit confidence and esteem of all as a professional gentleman in every respect the welcome extended to him is one of double meaning.

Professionally and socially Dr. L. M. Turbin, of Chicago has won his way to the confidence of our entire community and his monthly trips to Janesville are now looked forward to with undiminished pleasure.

The doctor has cured so many of our friends and neighbors of desperate chronic maladies which, for long periods, baffled other physicians, that he confines his practice to all chronic, organic, nervous and special diseases of both men and women, and the methods of treatment embrace all that is latest and best in modern advanced science which can be applied to the cure of diseases in his particular branch of practice.

Those who need the most cultivated skill should read his announcement and note the date of his visit to Janesville.

Blockade Near Chicago and Wreck at North Prairie Held up Trains Arriving Here About 10:30. Trains on the St. Paul Road arriving in this city about half past ten o'clock were this morning delayed from thirty-five minutes to an hour by two wrecks on the system. On the Prairie du Chien division eighteen cars were piled up at North Prairie, near Waukegan, and Train No. 21, due here at 10:20 was an hour and five minutes late. A freight train broke in two and the rear section ransomed the fore part of the train, causing the wreck. No one was injured. Train 131 Chicago to Madison, which is scheduled to arrive at 10:35 was delayed thirty-five minutes by a blockade north of Chicago, and did not reach this city until 11:10. Two freight cars went off the track on the main line and a temporary tie-up was caused. The delay in the two trains made it necessary to hold all other trains which meet them here. No. 8 from Madison to Chicago, and No. 142 from Chicago to Madison, until the arrival of 11 and 131. The station tracks were not cleared until after eleven o'clock.

CANNING FACTORY CLOSES A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Are Considering Extension of the Plant As A Result of the Prosperous Outlook.

Janesville, Nov. 4.—A very successful season's work at the canning factory was brought to a close on Monday of this week. The year's packing resulted in a total output of 65,000 cans of corn and 30,000 cans of tomatoes. This is an excellent showing for the first year and the season's work has proved very satisfactory to both the stockholders and the farmers, so much so that the company are planning to increase the capacity of the factory by building a new cement warehouse and also erecting a building and putting in machinery for handling peas before opening up for work in the spring. They will also add a large variety of vegetables to their canning list such as pumpkins, cabbage, string beans and baked beans, and by so doing, make the plant a year around industry. The first season's work surpassed the expectations of the company and closed with a bright outlook for the future. Their goods are meeting with ready sale at good prices, and the corporate price to pay the farmers bottom prices for their product another year, and will also pay according to grade and quality.

"You'll Succeed In Janesville"

Let's go back a little over a month and review an incident of the "Made in Janesville" display event. One manufacturer in this city, who makes machines that you would hardly expect him to be able to sell, through such a display because he couldn't show anything much but photographs, actually sold goods that brought him over $125.

Now if one manufacturer can realize sales from a display of his products in his home city, what benefits could he derive from Janesville to inaugurate an advertising campaign which would further spread the fame of this city throughout the whole country?

This new club is rapidly becoming a closely knit organization of tremendous strength and power. Work is being done now which will, from present indications, be the means of saving thousands of dollars to all shippers. But as this and other plans materialize, thought should be given to an advertising campaign which will, through the publicity given our city, increase the sales of every manufacturer and jobber in Janesville. Every business and professional man in Janesville should be a member of this Club—are you?

There is Economy in Choosing a Good Piano

Ask any competent music teacher what influence the tone of a piano has upon the work of a student and you will be told that it is one of the very important factors. And yet there are hundreds of people who buy inferior instruments because the prices are a little lower than those asked for pianos of real merit.

If you get a piano—get a good one, or save your money. There is no economy in choosing an instrument simply because it is cheap. In fact, it is extravagance to spend any sum for a piano which is useful only "for show."

We emphasize this statement because we give particular attention to the musical character of the instruments we sell. Every piano on our floor is intended for playing—not merely to serve as a piece of furniture—and for that reason we give our patrons the actual worth of their money.

Our one price system and our payment plan add to the attractive features of the service we offer and make your interests identical with ours.

FAREWELL RECEPTION FOR REV. CLYDE MCGEE

Was Given by His Church and Its Societies Last Thursday Evening.

Clinton, Nov. 5.—The reception Thursday evening to Rev. Clyde McGee and family was largely attended. The guests of honor received their friends at the chapel, assisted by Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Collier, Clarence Crandall and Miss Bonell Shepard. After the friends had all arrived the gathering was called to order by Solon Cooper, who in a few well chosen words stated the nature of the gathering and called on Mrs. J. C. Barker to speak to Rev. McGee and family in behalf of the church and society. She responded in a most eloquent address, after which E. H. Tubbs spoke for the Sunday school, emphasizing the loss the Sunday school would sustain in the removal of the pastor and family from Clinton. Rev. McGee, pastor of the Methodist church, then spoke, very feelingly, a message as a brother pastor of a sister church. Hiram Cooper then read the resolutions prepared by the resolutions committee and moved their adoption as a church and society by a standing vote which was done unanimously. Mr. McGee thanked his people in a very touching manner for their hearty expressions of love and good wishes. Mrs. F. W. Heron rendered a beautiful vocal solo, after which the ladies of the United Workmen served refreshments. During the assembling and the serving of the refreshments Mrs. Eudine L. C. Sharpshooters of the Revolution.
As soon as a pioneer boy was big enough to level a rifle he was given powder and ball to shoot squirrels. After a little practice he was required to bring in as many squirrels as he had received charges under penalty of a severe lecture or even of having his jacket "tanned." At the age of twelve the boy became a foot soldier, with Joseph assigned him from which to fight when the settlers rallied against an Indian foray. Growing older, he became a hunter of deer, elk, buffalo and bear, skilled in trailing and in utilizing cover, capable of enduring long marches through trackless mountain forests. At night he was content to curl up in a single blanket beside a small fire and sleep under the roof of heaven. If it rained, in a few minutes he built him a lodge of bark or boughs with no implement but his one pound tomahawk. Incessant war with the Indians taught him to be his own general, to be ever on the alert, to keep his head and shoot straight under fire. Fitted against an enemy who gave no quarter, but tortured the living and scalped the dead, he became himself a staunch fighter who never surrendered. The wilderness bred men of iron.

The Churchyard Yew's Secret.

"Why are yew trees found in cemeteries only?" said a forerunner. "Why, all over the world—saving here, where they don't exist—do you find in cemeteries great yews of immemorial age? Antiquaries have tried to attach some druidic significance to the matter. Yews grow in churchyards and nowhere else, hence they were sacred to the dead in the time of the Druids, and it was as erroneous to plant them in your garden as to plant tombstones there. I have exploded that superstition. On a walking tour of England one summer I asked every farmer I met why he had no yews on his place. The answer was always the same: 'Do you think I want to lose my cattle?' or 'I had one but cut it down. The beasties got at it, and yew leaves is poison to the beasties.' Yes, that is the secret of the churchyard yew. It grows only in cemeteries because the farmers have destroyed it everywhere else, its leaves being injurious to live stock."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Are You Seeking a Good Position? Thousands Are

Today, thousands of bright, intelligent young men and young women are out of employment, seeking positions. Many thousands more are working at occupations where wages are barely sufficient to provide the actual necessities of life. Yet, on every hand, employers are constantly seeking young men and young women to fill responsible, well paying, positions, where the employment is agreeable and the chances for promotion favorable. The reason for this state of affairs is plain to be seen.

The employer demands competent, well trained men and will employ only those who can "make good" from the start.

Prove this for yourself

Take any city newspaper—turn to the "Help Wanted" columns—read the advertisements. In nearly every one you will find the following words or equivalent: "Reply in own hand writing"—"Must be rapid and accurate in figures"—"Must have experience"—"Must be competent"—"Must be good correspondent"—"Must be able to keep double entry"—"Shorthand writer preferred"—"One who can operate typewriter," etc., etc. The question will not be "What do you know?" but "What can you do?" In other words, have you a business training? What do these requirements really mean? Here it is in a nutshell: Penmanship, Arithmetic, Rapid Calculation, Business Practice, Business Correspondence, Bookkeeping, Stenography, Typewriting, etc., etc. These are the studies embraced in the

W. W. DALE, President.

Southern Wisconsin Business College

It was because these studies are not taught in regular colleges that the business colleges were inaugurated. The business world demands men and women trained in these subjects. We supply the demand. Unless you are trained you cannot enter the business world and command a good position. Let us train you, and your ability is doubled. You then have an opportunity to enter a business office. You are trained to do the work the world wants done. We have hundreds of positions we are unable to fill each year because we cannot get enough students to supply the demand. We have trained hundreds who are now earning double and treble what they would have been earning if they had not come to us.

Now Stop and Think

We ask you to think this over, investigate our statements, prove them for yourself, then investigate our school—learn whether or not our graduates are successful; and finally, if you are interested, send for our catalog and full information. Learn all about it—come and visit the school, investigate our methods. Pupils can enter any time. Individual instruction.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Up in the great house that stands on the hill
The curtains are drawn and the hall-ways are still
And the sun never peaks through the half-open door
The man in a millionaire—grabbing for more!

The house in the valley is battered and worn
But its laughter is ringing across the glad morn
The children are singing, a mother's glad face
Makes a halcyon beauty of peace in the place.

They haven't got money, they wear no fine clothes
But the world fills their hearts with the breath of the rose
The birds at the door and the blue sky above
And the daylight is sweet with the touch of God's love.

—St. Paul Dispatch.

This choice sentiment expresses the wealth of contentment and appreciation, the heritage of the masses, in sharp contrast to the riches represented by money and the perishable luxuries for which it is exchanged.

The notion prevails in the minds of some people that money is the best friend that a man can possibly possess, and so long as he has money there is no occasion to worry.

While it is true that the "hail fellow, well met" is a prince of good fellows, so long as his money lasts, it is also true that no class of people drop out of sight so rapidly as these same "good fellows" when their money is gone.

Complaint is sometimes made that the wealth of the world is not very evenly distributed, and this feeling is not confined to the socialists who advocate what they deem a more equitable distribution, through legal processes.

This feeling was never more pronounced, in this land so rich in opportunity, than it is today, and to this cause is due to large extent the restlessness which is so prevalent.

The mission of the magazine press has been diverted from regular channels to the discussion of topics which have stirred up class distinction and encouraged class hatred, and many patriots who pose as statesmen, have lent their voice to aid in stimulating the same dangerous doctrine.

The statement that half a dozen men own and control the railroads of the United States, has been made so often that many people believe it, and yet statistics show that this class of property is divided among 200,000 stockholders.

One of these investors who lived just across the county line, died at an advanced age, not long ago, and his estate included $25,000 of Pennsylvania railroad stock.

Moody's Manual, recently issued, is authority on industrial statistics. It is a revelation on a class of corporations who do business in several states, through subsidiary companies, like the Standard Oil, the United States Steel, and the American Tobacco company.

These names are familiar, because of the court notoriety which they enjoy, and yet they are only three of 1,138, employing thirteen billion dollars of capital, and represented by an army of stockholders.

Add to the railroads the industries and commerce, the 10,000,000 farmers, and the argument for a more equitable distribution is too foolish to consider.

While more than half the voters of the United States are taxpayers, and many of them blessed with a sufficiency to make them happy, if possession is a requisite to happiness, they enjoy in common with the much larger class composed of the men, the women and children of the land, the riches of a birthright more priceless than money or property, because as free as the air, and exempt from taxation.

The child in the American home is the representative of 20,000,000 care-free children, nearly one-fourth of the population of the country.

The average home where children are found is not a home of wealth, and many of these homes are destitute of luxuries, but the children know nothing of classes, and so they share alike in the wealth of the child's kingdom, the choicest realm in existence, because so free from cant and hypocrisy, and so democratic in spirit.

The lullaby which calls to consciousness the first glimmer of intelligence when the baby opens its eyes to the mother's greeting, is a world's lullaby. Whether chanted in the cottage or nursery it is the melody of a mother's love and sacrifice, and the wealth it bestows is so enduring and so evenly distributed, that the little stranger from almost every environment is rich in inheritance.

"The love of God so free and boundless," has long been the topic of song and story, but the mother love is more tangible, because it envelops and shelters the child life long before the name of Dolly is heard, or the attributes, recognized, and so from babyhood to childhood and on through the years of development the child is a king, not because of money, but because of the great storehouse of wealth found in the home where the mother presides.

The choicest work of philanthropy, which engages public attention today, is the work which is being done for children who are compelled by necessity to take up the task of bread winning long before they should.

Laws have been passed in many of the states prohibiting child labor, but they are lightly regarded and so many children are deprived of their birthright, and grow prematurely old.

The boy is never but once a boy, and the choice years of girlhood never return. In this care-free period, the wealth of nature contributes to the wealth of the home and the treasures gathered from the woods and streams, and the beauties which attract the eye, inspire the embryo mind with a love for the Creator.

Over on the edge of this is a small or company of sojourners, equally free from care and responsibility, they need no law to protect them, for they have passed the age limit, yet while the journey has been full of romance and tragedy the panorama which interests them most is the picture of the old home and the environments of a limited horizon.

The years of busy activity which come in between the extremes of age, are not dependent upon wealth for happiness, and the great middle class which possesses neither poverty nor riches represent the rank and file of contented humanity.

The agitator and the people with a grievance are so largely in the minority that they are hardly worth considering.

The tidal wave and the earthquake carry destruction in their paths, but they are local, and the disturbances are soon forgotten, and so the sun continues to shine and prosperity smiles in spite of dire predictions and small omens.

Nature is a lavish provider and her vast resources are at the command of every appreciative taker.

The door of opportunity is a wide open door, and the man who misses it must be color-blind. It may not invite to great wealth, but that is no misfortune, for there are other avenues which lead to success—avenues which prepare for the work of life along the lines of adaptability and develop ability to fill full the niche occupied.

The choicest heritage which comes to a nation is the heritage of peace, and the rarest blessing which comes to any life is the same choice endowment. At peace with itself and all mankind. This little poem from an unknown author expresses the sentiment as applied to nations, and suggests the jewels which may crown every life.

"When navies are forgotten
And fleets are useless things,
When the dove shall warm her bosom
Beneath the eagle's wings,
When memory of battles
At last is strange and old.

When nations have one banner
And creeds have found one fold,
Then hate's last note of discord
In all God-worlds shall be told,
In the conquest which is service,
In the victory which is peace."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A WISE BRIDE.

"She married beneath her."
That was what her circle of friends said about the marriage of the daughter of the judge.

And why? Because the girl married a young blacksmith.

There could be no objection to the bridegroom. He was of good family, was bright, clean and steady and able to support his wife. But—

"He works with his hands."

The young husband is a natural mechanic and of the inventor order of mind. He has rigged up several inventions in his shop, and in all probability some day he will own a big factory.

Besides, he was denied school facilities through no fault of his own. When he was ten years old his minister father died, and the boy went to work, though he has always been a great reader, and all through the years he has been the head of the family and has kept his two younger brothers in school.

"But he works and gets dirty," the

Now, the older daughter of the judge married a man with soft hands and soft ways. He was a young son of a lawyer without brains or practice, and the judge has always paid most of his son-in-law's bills. But the judge's wife was greatly pleased at that marriage.

Honor to the girl who married the man who carried his dinner pail!

I do not mean that carrying his lunch and working at the forge for that reason made him a desirable husband. But I say the girl was wise and brave because she knew what he was and loved him.

It is too late in the history of the world, my dear, to try to look down on the man who labors with his hands.

Whether the hands of labor make or design the bridge, plan the skyscraper or erect it, grind axes on the emery wheel or spectacle lenses, handle the surgeon's scissors or heave clay out of an irrigation ditch—these are the hands that turn the wheels of progress today.

Honest labor, whether of brain cell or flexor muscles, dignifies the man.

Just wait. In ten years, barring accident, that young blacksmith will be able to buy and sell the whole bunch of those who feel so sorry for his wife.

And she? Whether he gets rich or stays poor, becomes a captain of industry or blows the bellows, she—

Why, she married him because he was clean inside and worthy and energetic and, most of all, because she loved him!

The time has come for stovepipes, and all the genial wits will get off things no funnier we'll laugh till we have fits.

THE STOVEPIPE SEASON

The sad and weary husband is pictured on a chair, with soot upon his forehead, while cusswords fill the air. The worn and stricken housewife is giving good advice, the while her husband begs her to place her head on ice. You've read to old old story in fifty come sheets; each budding, fester springs it, each Autumn, and repeats. "This but a weary tale; it is not true to life; the stovepipe job rejoices your uncle and his wife. It is a glad occasion, a festive day of glee, when all the happy neighbors and friends come in to see. Your uncle takes a stovepipe and sticks it in a hole, and shines a cheery rondo with the dumper and monkeys with the wire, and all the time he's singing and twanging on his lyre. He tinkers with the stove, he fiddles with the stove, and chants of valiant lovers who found their Treasure True. Alas, such joys are fleeting! The pipes are soon in place, and if a trace of sorrow is on your uncle's face, and if adven his whiskers there a vagrant tear, it's 'cause the stovepipe season don't last through-out the year.

Once there was an Indian named Big Smoke, employed as a missionary to his fellow Smokes. A white man, encountering Big Smoke, asked him what he did for a living. "Umph!" said Big Smoke, "me preach." "That so? What do you get for preaching?" "Me get ten dollars a year." "Well," said the white man, "that's damn poor pay." "Umph!" said Big Smoke, "me damn poor preacher."

TAX-FERRETING PACT UNSIGNED

MAYOR CARLE MAY DECLINE TO FOLLOW COUNCIL'S ORDER.

IS WATCHING MILWAUKEE

Whose Negotiations With Workman & Higgs Have Raised Some New Considerations.

Workman & Higgs' proposition to go on a still hunt for Janesville money invested in bonds, stock, mortgages, and like securities outside the state has inevitably raised the whole question of the ethics and practicability of mortgage taxation. There is the old argument that the investor is bound to have a certain return on his investment and that under a system of mortgage taxation the mortgagee eventually pays all the freight in one way or another. It is not expressly stipulated that he shall pay tribute both on the property mortgaged and on the mortgage, itself, in the long run a higher rate of interest is sure to be exacted—which amounts to the same thing. And so with bonds. The municipality or corporation will most certainly have to pay a higher rate of interest if the buyer is to be taxed. On the other hand, of course, money ought to bear its share of the burden in the community where it belongs.

The economics and equity of the proposition, however, are of less moment at this time than the feasibility and it is with this question that Mayor Wilbur F. Carle who has not determined whether or not he shall sign the contract which the council approved by a vote of 4 to 2 at last meeting, is chiefly concerned. He does not say that he will not sign the contract but he does not conceal the fact that he is inclined to doubt the wisdom of such a course, on the part of the city, just at the present juncture when there are no supreme court rulings or other precedents to go by in the state of Wisconsin. Here are some of the questions he raises:

Have the claims that this system of tax-ferreting worked out so successfully by Indiana been amply substantiated?

If the city is going to undertake to collect delinquent taxes for the county and state as well as itself, ought not the county and state be called upon to bear their proportion of the risk and expense? Will not their consent to the payment of a 3 1/2% commission be in any way?

What is the explanation of the delay in adopting the plan at Waukegan, some of whose aldermen came over here to urge Janesville to get in on this good thing?

If the plan is a good one it ought to keep. Why not let Milwaukee or Waukegan try it out first?

Is it not possible for our assessors and supervisors of assessors to get at this thing? Most men do a lot of tall thinking before they swear falsely.

Mayor Carle is closely watching the progress of the movement in Milwaukee. At the joint meeting of the council committees on taxes and finance in the metropolitan Thursday afternoon, it was decided to accept the proposition of Workman & Higgs of Indianapolis to ferret out intangible property that is escaping taxation and the recommendation will be submitted to the council on Monday. That is to say, the recommendation will be submitted if a favorable opinion is forthcoming from the city attorney who has been called upon to determine the legality of the plan.

According to J. B. Workman's estimate, taxes on intangible property representing a value of nearly fifteen million dollars may be placed upon the Milwaukee tax rolls and will bring in about $400,000 in taxes for the three years. Twenty-five per cent of all money collected in this fashion will go to Workman & Higgs. The city, schools, county and state will have to pay their proportionate shares of the commission from new taxes received under the plan, according to Attorney Adolph Hubschman, representing the tax ferretors.

There is some question as to just what form of procedure the Janesville council is likely to take if Mayor Carle declines to withhold his signature from the contract. An ordinance may be passed over the mayor's veto by a two-thirds majority but this instance he would be simply refusing to comply with a request which the aldermen, by vote, had made upon him.

MISS M'DOWELL TO SPEAK AT MEETING

Prominent Club Organizer of Chicago Will Speak at Mass Meeting For Social Center.

At the meeting of those interested in establishing a social center for the young women of Janesville, held last evening at the audience room of the city hall, it was decided to invite Miss Mary McDowell of Chicago to come to the city and deliver an address on the subject of women's clubs. Miss McDowell is a prominent club organizer and she is sure to have some valuable suggestions for the formation of a young women's social center in this city. It is planned to hold this mass meeting some time this month when an organization will be perfected.

There was a large and enthusiastic audience at last night's meeting and an exceptional interest is being shown by young women in various lines of employment which portends well for future success of the proposed organization. The value and need of some center for the improvement of the moral, mental and physical side of the character is being realized more and more and much credit is due to those who are urging the matter.

The Small Courtesies of Life.

The way to make yourself pleasing to others is to let them see that you care for them and show people what Sterne called "the small, sweet courtesies of life," those courtesies which make no parade, but which manifest themselves in tender words, little kind acts of affection and giving others the preference in everyday life. These make up the much appreciated "small courtesies"—Home Notes.

Monster Whale Drifted Ashore.

A seventy-foot whale weighing fully fifty tons, the largest ever seen in the district recently drifted ashore at Cloughton Wyke, six miles north of Scarborough, England. It had formerly been seen five miles off Whitby, where it was in the direct line of coasting vessels and a danger to shipping. It has been cut up, carried ashore, and buried at the expense of the board of trade.

Orris Roots.

The orris root, so familiar to lovers of perfume, should really be called iris root, since it is made from the roots, or rather rootstocks, of several species of iris, especially Germanica, the common blue flag of the gardens, and Iris Florentina, a white variety. It is reported that the root has to be dried and preserved for some time before the fragrance is fully developed. The freshly dug plants have no fragrance.—American Botanist.

MAKING SEARCH FOR A DEAD MAN'S GRIP

Officers Are Trying to Locate Person at Effects of Hans Olson Who Died at Hospital Yesterday.

Officers are conducting a search for a grip, supposed to contain important papers, which may have been left at a local hotel by Hans Olson, age 32 years, who succumbed to typhoid fever at Mercy hospital yesterday afternoon. The farmer living a mile and a half north of Leyden, for whom Olson worked, visited him recently and learning that there was little hope that he would survive, urged him to state the whereabouts of his effects in order that they might be sent to the home of his parents who live at Cookville. Olson made some hasty reply and dismissed the subject. The remains will be sent to Cookville for burial.

FALSE ALARM BY EIGHT-YEAR OLD

Alan Hanewold Gave Department Firemen This Morning—Lectured by Judge Field.

Alan Hanewold, eight-year-old son of Anton Hanewold, turned in a false alarm from box 67 shortly after ten o'clock this morning and gave the fire department a hard and futile run of a mile and a quarter to Quarry hill, near the Blind Institute. The youth was captured and brought back by the firemen and was in a very penitent mood when he appeared before Judge Field. Had he been a little older the offense would have meant sixty days in the county jail but the court, under the circumstances, decided to be lenient and let the boy off after giving him a lecture which he will not forget for some time.

The Lakota Cardinals lost their title of "undefeated Cardinals" to the team composed of players from the Sophomore team of the University of Wisconsin in a game at the West Side rink, by the score of 14 to 10. The victory of the University team was won by superior playing although the Cardinals put forth their best efforts. King, left forward, wrangled his knee in the second half and Newman, who was acting as referee took his place. Murphy was substituted for Robertson in the Janesville lineup in the second half. The lineup of the teams:

DOWNFALL OF NEW REPUBLIC PREDICTED.

A new picture of President Theophile Braga, present head of the Portuguese Republic, Paris.—The prevailing opinion among French statesmen is that the republic of Portugal is to be short lived owing to the personnel of its leaders. The president, himself, a professional man, has filled the government positions almost entirely from the ranks of professors and scholars and has failed to include among his advisors men of experience in statecraft. It is thought this will tend to work toward a theological government rather than a stable, practical regime and will eventually become unpopular with the masses. Already revolts have been plotted and only narrowly averted by the watchfulness of the police. The revolutionists, however, are not accounted in the running nearly as much as the Duke of Oporto, who may yet become king of Portugal.

WOULD KILL CHIEF CLAY

MAN FIRES THREE BULLETS AT PHILADELPHIA SAFETY DIRECTOR.

IS BELIEVED TO BE INSANE

Stranger Calls at Henry Clay's Office and Begins Shooting Without Warning—Declares He is Persecuted by Police.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—But for his shortness in grappling with a would-be assassin Henry Clay, director of public safety, would probably have lost his life when a man, believed to be demented, fired three bullets at him in his office.

The man, who gave his name as Harry Clark and who appeared to be about sixty-five years old, called at Mr. Clay's office and demanded to see him. As soon as he was admitted to the private office he began to abuse Mr. Clay, declaring he had been persecuted by the police and insisting on a radical reorganization of the force.

Shots at Official.

Mr. Clay tried to quiet the man, and when his attempt failed he started to put him out of the office. In an instant Clark drew a revolver and shot three times at Mr. Clay, two of the bullets going into the wall and one shattering a window. Mr. Clay had caught the barrel of the revolver and this probably saved his life.

Several employees of the department rushed into the room and the man was disarmed and locked up.

Man is Probably Insane.

When examined following his attempt to assassinate the director Clark gave as his reason for the act the fact that no governor could be elected in this state because the laws are not obeyed properly.

The detectives did their utmost to attempt to shake the composure of the man, thinking his demeanor was but a ruse, but finally became convinced that he was crazy.

Waits Long Time for Clay.

Clark waited a long time for the director. He stood outside of the hall of Mr. Clay's office for nearly an hour before that official came into his office. Why he chose the police head as the man who was to suffer for the inadequacy of the statutes the man could not explain and the detectives have been unable to force an explanation from him.

FRANK GOULD TWICE MARRIED

First Ceremony Takes Place at Paris in August Last.

London, Nov. 5.—Frank J. Gould, divorced husband of Mrs. Ralph Hill Thomas, admitted for the first time that he was married to Edith Kelly, former London and New York chorus girl.

The marriage was performed by civil contract last August in Paris. Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould, however, was dissatisfied with the French ceremony and insisted upon having the wedding consummated in England or Scotland.

It was for this reason that Frank Gould and his bride went to Scotland early in October.

Mr. Gould was furious when he learned that the Edinburgh marriage had been made public.

DAWSON WINS 200 MILE RACE

Takes Atlanta Trophy and $1,000 Cash After Desperate Drive.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 5.—The Marmon car, with Joe Dawson at the wheel, crossed the finish line of the 200-mile Atlanta trophy race just 3.15 seconds ahead of Ralph Mulford's big white Lister, after an exciting duel of desperate driving that began soon after the hundredth mile.

Time 2 hours, 51 minutes, 12.73 seconds. The winner took the Atlanta trophy and $1,000 in cash.

New York, Nov. 5.—Edward T. Rosenheimer, a wealthy manufacturer, was acquitted on a charge of killing Miss Grace Hough by running down in his automobile a buggy in which she was riding, August 18. The jury was out but half an hour.

One Dead, Many Hurt in Fire.

New York, Nov. 5.—One woman was killed, several persons were injured and there were numerous narrow escapes in fire in various sections of the city. Mrs. Rebecca Aener, the woman killed, is declared by witnesses to have been kicked from a third floor fire escape while she was fleeing from an incendiary fire.

Auto Kills Schoolgirl.

Akron, O., Nov. 5.—Helen Starr, sixteen, was killed, her sister Anna, fourteen, slightly hurt, and Laura Waldrick, five, so badly injured she will probably die, when an automobile driven by A. W. Marrett, a contractor, struck the girls, who were on their way home from school.

TIDAL WAVE AT NOME; VOLCANO THE CAUSE?

Houses Are Wrecked and Streets Flooded When Sea Mysteriously Rushes In on City.

Nome, Alaska, Nov. 5.—Seventeen houses were destroyed, a number of vessels were washed away and the streets of the city filled with water when an unprecedented and mysterious surf swept in from the ocean.

It is believed by many here that the high sea, which was not accompanied by any wind, is due to volcanic activity, and it is thought that Bogoslov Island, the "new island" in Behring sea, is to blame for the tidal wave. Bogoslov is an "intermittent island," sometimes it is twice and sometimes it is single. Again it is large, and then the next ship that passes may report that it has dwindled to a mere volcanic speck in the sea.

Hogeslov, it is thought, may have doubled again or may have blown itself to nothing, sending the tidal waves which all but inundated Nome. For several years the water here has been remarkably low, and this resulted in the building of houses close to the shore. It was these that were swept away by the sea.

No lives were lost, but many persons had narrow escapes. The water swept far up the streets, those near the shore being completely inundated.

The schooner Mary Sachs was picked up from her mooring by the mighty rush of water and deposited in a spit dweller's yard. All the other boats laid up for the winter were swept far up on the beach by the waves.

BAR ELKINS-ABRUZZI OPERETTA.

New Musical Composition Cannot Be Produced in Italy.

Rome, Nov. 5.—The Italian government refused to permit the production in Italy of "The Beautiful Miss," an operetta which is said to be founded on the romance of Miss Katherine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi, and it will have its first presentation in New York. So harshly has the author of the libretto dealt with the American girl, who is the heroine and who is depicted as a tireless title hunter, that the Italian foreign office placed its ban on the operetta lest it should offend American sensibilities. Both the author and the composer, the latter a noted musician, have refused to allow their names to be made public, fearing legal proceedings.

SLAYS DAUGHTER, SHOOTS SELF.

Woman Commits Crime Through Worry Over Sick Husband.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Harriett Turner, forty years old, shot and killed her seventeen-year-old daughter Marjorie, and then sent a bullet into her own breast, inflicting what is probably a fatal wound.

Mrs. Turner's husband, William, and her son, Willard, are ill in a hospital at Philadelphia. The husband is in a critical condition from asthma and the son is being treated for blindness in one eye.

The authorities believe that worry over her family troubles temporarily deranged Mrs. Turner's mind.

GIRL WORKER TO GET $300,000.

Stenographer of 16 Years to Inherit at 21; Will Continue Telling.

Toledo, O., Nov. 5.—Miss Ella Buchholz, sixteen years old, a stenographer for the American Cigar company, received a letter from Germany informing her that her uncle and grandfather had just died and left her sole heir to his estate valued at half a million. The only restriction in the will was that the girl shall wait until she is twenty-one to receive the money. She will continue at work.

FIVE DIE IN MINE EXPLOSION.

But Few Men in Alabama Colliery When Blast Occurs.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 5.—An explosion of gas in the mines at Yolande of the Yolande Coal and Coke company killed five white men. The fact that but few men were in the mines at the time is the cause of the small fatality list. Three years ago sixty-five men were killed in those mines by a gas explosion.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5.—Jacques Krueger, the comedian, who fell from the stage in Detroit opera house, probably has been permanently retired from the stage. The physicians fear that owing to his age, sixty-nine years, his broken leg will not mend. He also has internal injuries and suffers greatly.

AMERICAN MINISTER TO TURKEY WISHES TO RETIRE.

Oscar S. Straus and Mrs. Straus.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Oscar S. Straus, American Minister to Turkey, is anxious to leave the diplomatic service and return to America permanently. Mr. Straus saw the president and reported that all the matters in dispute between Turkey and the United States which he had been delegated to adjust had been satisfactorily disposed of, leaving the two nations, for the first time in many years, without a single diplomatic hitch between them. His third resignation, however, comes at an inopportune time, as viewed from Washington, owing to the necessity of an experienced diplomat in Turkey during the formative stage of the young Turkish government. This country, so rich in commercial possibilities, requires careful handling if American capital is to receive its share in the millions of dollars of investments about to be made in railroads, mines, etc.

Mrs. Straus, it is known, wishes to return to the United States and the social life of Washington among her friends. It is not as yet stated whether his resignation will be accepted or not.

THIS SEASON RESOLVE TO BUY GOOD COAL ONLY

Everybody has experienced trouble with coal. You probably do not know why some coal is good and some is not so good, but you realize that there is a difference in coal. It is our business to KNOW Coal. We do. We tell you that a live, bright, clean coal is best, because it will burn to a fine ash. Every bit of it. Coal that is dull, dusty, lifeless looking, contains siftings, dirt, slate and dead matter. What good coal there is in it cannot burn freely because it is choked by the dead matter. This results in clinkers, uneven fires and partly burned coal.

SCRANTON COAL IS PURE COAL

It's live coal, bright, clean, and it burns freely and evenly. This season resolve to try a ton of it. If it suits you better than all other coal we will be assured of your continued patronage. We Want to Tell Every Sick Person in Southern Wisconsin How to Get Well

Will You Spare Enough Time to Come to Our Office and Learn the Truth?

RAYMOND PUDDICOMBE

AS the days go by still more proof accumulates that the Chiropractic Science surely makes well and happy men and women out of those who were ill and suffering. Pages of this newspaper could be filled with these instances—cases of severe and long seated illness that medicine and doctors failed to reach and help. I wish it were possible for every sick one to see and talk with these who have found such marvelous help in the simple Chiropractic Science.

One man came to our office suffering tortures with what was called "neuralgia" in the face. He had tried all the remedies usually prescribed; had "doctors" and tried in every way to find relief, without any benefit. At last he took the wise step he should have taken at the first. One Chiropractic adjustment relieved him and gave him the first night's sleep he'd had in a week, four made him so well that he goes up and down the street, telling about the wonderful benefits he received from the Chiropractic science.

J. N. PUDDICOMBE

DO YOU WANT TO BE WELL?

Do you want perfect health, freedom from disease and a cessation of doctor's bills? We can tell you the way. We know it and can prove it. We want you to know and prove it, too. No matter how long you have suffered, no matter what your disease, there is a cause for your illness and the Chiropractic Science searches out and REMOVES the CAUSE. What does ill health mean to you? What would you give for health? When We tell you that we know a way for you to be well we tell you the solemn truth, a thing that we can demonstrate to an absolute certainty.

The Chiropractic science will make you well when all others have failed. When we have examined you we can tell you what your ailment is, what it is caused from, and explain to you how the cause can be removed. If it is not perfectly plain to you, after that you need feel under no obligations—you can leave the office and your examination does not cost you a cent. If you want adjustments you will find our charges so low that you will wonder how the medical profession dare charge such exorbitant prices.

Remember, we do not ask you to tell us what your sickness is—we tell you. It is our business to know. The Chiropractic science reveals the truth to us that the medical profession must "guess" at—because of their methods of treating symptoms and not removing the cause.

Better come in the first thing tomorrow and have a talk.

SIX HUNDRED INSANE FREED

GOVERNMENT ASYLUM AT BRANDON, MAN., IS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

MANY OF INMATES ARE HURT

Scenes of Fantastic Horror Witnessed as Demented Men and Women Dance Before Flames in a Blinding Snowstorm.

Brandon, Man., Nov. 5.—The insane asylum of the Manitoba government was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $250,000, but all of the inmates were rescued. One of the women patients, playing with matches, was responsible for the fire.

Six hundred patients were confined in the asylum when the fire broke out. As the flames spread it was decided to release the patients, as it was considered impossible to save their lives otherwise.

Grounds Become a Bedlam.

Immediately after the doors were thrown open the grounds about the asylum became a bedlam. Shrieking, screaming, yelling in demoniacal frenzy, dancing in the firelight made stronger by the rapidly descending darkness, the 600 men and women first spread through the grounds, defying and disregarding the commands of the keepers, who attempted to keep them banded until shelter could be found.

Snowstorm Raging.

To add to the fantastic horror of the scenes witnessed, a heavy snowstorm was raging and the air was biting cold. Many of the patients were lightly clad; none had outdoor winter clothing. Soon portions of the crowd gathered near the flames for the warmth they gave and were eventually quieted. Others of the pitiable crowd stood around in the snow, their scant garments blown around their frail bodies by the cold wind. The hospital staff, assisted by the military and citizens of the town, finally found shelter for all in stables, outhouses and other buildings. A number of the patients were injured and others were badly chilled.

Arrangements were at once made to fit up the armory and winter fair buildings for temporary quarters, but the problem of looking after the patients during the winter is a serious one, as the asylum at Seldrick is already filled.

The asylum here was a mile and a half from the city, and the fire was beyond control before the department arrived. The monetary loss is about $250,000.

GAYNOR PLANS END OF STRIKE.

Expected All Difficulties Will be Cleared Away at Conference.

New York, Nov. 5.—Mayor Gaynor's plans for a settlement of the expressmen's strike are expected to bear fruit when the mayor will meet representatives of the companies, and the strikers to take up some minor points of the wage scale. This, it is said, is all that remains to be done before a complete agreement is reached.

Every other issue was settled at a conference arranged and attended by the mayor, Francis C. Bangs, general counsel of the Adams Express company, and the strikers' conference committee.

When the conference was at an end an announcement was made that only the definition of certain wage demands remained to be settled. Every important demand of the men, it was reported, was acceded to.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, divorced wife of Howard Gould, arrived here from her country home at Blue Gap, ten miles away, driving a team of mules covered with lather, having covered the distance in 65 minutes and claimed she had been poisoned by her negro cook.

OVERLAND MODEL 45

$775

This undoubtedly will be the most popular car of the year. It deserves to be, for there is quality in it. It is larger, handsomer and smarter than any car of its type on the market.

A study of the specifications will show this model to be a masterful design in size, power and efficiency. It has a strength and power for the worst roads, and more hill climbing ability than you really need. It can go anywhere any car can go. The large gasoline tank becomes of value on long tours and the full elliptic rear springs make it a noticeably comfortable and easy riding car.

It would be impossible to make such a car at the price except in large numbers and without the economical system of manufacture employed by the Overland Company.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I WONDER if women, as a rule, realize how intensely and consistently most men hate perfume.

I was speaking of the way in which men who smoke leave the tint of their habit upon you, if they so much as shake your hand. I rather like the smell of fresh tobacco smoke, I said, "but the stink of a man who smokes leaves on his hands and clothes, and that clings around most men who smoke a great deal, I hate. Why, if you dance with such a man or shake hands with him you can smell that stink odor on yourself the rest of the evening."

"Is it any worse than the way women disseminate the odor of perfume?" demanded the other party to the discussion.

As a proof of his disinterestedness in the argument, let me mention that the other party does not smoke at all. "No nice woman uses perfume," I protested.

"Yes, they do," he insisted. "Well, maybe not strong perfume, but some kind of scent. My mother, now, insists she doesn't use perfume, but her handkerchiefs always have some kind of an odor."

"Why, that's because she keeps them in a sachet," I explained, "almost everyone does that."

"Exactly," said the other party. "That's what I mean. I don't know whether the sachet is wet or dry, or whether it comes out of a bottle or through a cloth, but it's there, and you can't dance with most girls without smelling it on your hands, and I don't like it, and neither do most men."

That's a new point of view to me. Of course, I always knew that the use of any strong perfume was extremely bad form.

I dislike, as much as any man, to sit next a woman on the train or car who has drenched her handkerchief in some strong toilet water before saluting forth to conquest.

But I had never thought that the placing of sachets in one's clean linen was any other than a dainty habit.

Perhaps the other party had an obsession on the subject? Perhaps he is particularly sensitive to odors?

I can't say for sure. All I know is that he very warmly scouted this hypothesis when I suggested it, and that other men whom I have since consulted, hold similar views to his.

Already I can picture to myself the letter I am going to receive from the aggressive young person.

She is going to say, "You needn't think we are going to stop using sachets just because men don't like them. There are some women who don't think about what men like at all."

Right—O, aggressive young person. But this isn't a command to stop using sachets. It's just a presentation of a point of view that was new and interesting to me, and that I thought might be the same to other women.

Fads and Fashions

New York, Nov. 4.—Although the weather is still warm, at least too warm for winter garments, furs of every description, fur coats, fur hats and costumes more or less trimmed with furs are displayed profusely in the fashionable shops. The long, all-enveloping coats of fur are here again this season, more luxuriant and extravagant than ever, though many good looking models are made up in the less expensive furs.

Seal is to have another season of popularity, the French or imitation seal of good quality being used for a majority of the coats, genuine seal having become too rare and too expensive for any general use. Mink skin is another short hair, silky pelt which has been restored to favor and is made up into exceedingly attractive long coats. Big collars of long haired fur are the rage, and often the long fur is used also for cuffs and for trimming on the coat bottom, the latter put on in a straight band or rounding up and narrowing to points in the front. Sometimes, too, one sees the coat fronts rounding away at the bottom and two narrow bands of long fur set on at a distance of eight or ten inches apart.

The square sailor collar in the back with wide sloping fronts is introduced among the fur coat models very effectively, but chiefly in the simple short-haired furs such as chinchilla, ermine, seal and mole.

Gorgeous ermine coats are trimmed in seal, but the handsomest of the ermine models are in combinations of plain and spotted ermine or in all white ermine trimmed in huge collars of sable. The practical broadtail is of course in the field, but here again one usually finds the collar of long fur.

Australian chinchilla or opossum is used for whole coats and small furs and great quantities of fox in all colors are employed for trimming and small furs. Marmot is one of the new favorites, and skunk is still extensively used.

In many of the fur-trimmed models the fur is used in a fashion more unusual than the mere trimming bands with which women are familiar. One French frock, for example, was of very dark brown satin crepe, a veritable short coat of the crepe with collar, cuffs and big round buttons of seal fur. Below the coat appeared a tunic of the crepe, its broadness crossing in front to match a surplus front bodice. The point left at the bottom of the skirt front by this crossed drapery disclosed a skirt of seal skin and a narrow line of the fur shows all around the bottom of the skirt, though the crepe tunic drapery almost entirely covers it.

The use of velvet for trimming increases day by day and velvet costumes are numerous wherever imported models are shown. Little frocks of velvet exceedingly modish in line but almost without trimming are made up for afternoon wear and are quite useful and becoming. A very little embroidery of a heavy, bold kind, is perhaps the most effective trimming for these frocks and corsets of satin or silk are sometimes slung into flat discs or other ornaments and used for trimming, while buttons and narrow lines of fur are trimming enough for other frocks. Never was a season more favorable to the making over of old frocks and the using of old materials, for all sorts of materials are combined, and the rage for veiling effects makes possible the hiding of any signs of soil or wear upon old satin, crepe, etc.

Cloth and satin, cloth and velvet, cloth and crepe, cloth and chiffon, all are desirable combinations. Silk of any kind may be combined with velvet. Plain silk may be combined with brocade or plain velvet may be used with brocade or fancy velvet.

Panelis are popular, and skirts opened at side or front to show a contrasting petticoat are distinctly modish, while deep bottom bands or flat flounces in material contrasting with that of the upper part of the skirt

The KITCHEN CABINET

"There's a Poetry in Pie."

Pie is difficult of digestion, as the starch granules are surrounded by the fat and impervious to the gastric juices, which do not act upon fat. Pie that is light, dry and flaky is more easily separated by the gastric fluids and if well masticated and insalivated may be eaten sparingly with impunity.

The custard pie is one of the most popular and as it has but one crust, if that is well baked, which makes it less harmful.

For the pastry an old-fashioned rule is one part fat to three parts flour and enough cold water to roll out.

Custard Filling.—Take the yolks of two eggs, one pint of milk, a little salt and half a cupful of sugar, flavor with a little orange rind or nutmeg and put into a hot oven at first to bake the crust quickly, then slowly finish the baking.

Cream Pie.

Take one cupful of rich milk or cream, one-half cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of cornstarch and the yolks of two eggs. Cook the milk sugar and cornstarch together, then add the eggs and put into a baked crust. Cover with a meringue made from the whites of the eggs and brown in the oven.

A custard pie may be a coconut pie by adding a half cup of coconut to the pie just before it is baked.

Here is a pie that is truly good and may take the place of mince meat: One cupful each of sour cream, sugar and raisins, one egg well beaten, one-half teaspoonful each of salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves and one tablespoonful of vinegar. Bake with two crusts.

Cocoa Pie.

Take one pint of milk, one egg or yolks of two, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, six tablespoonfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of cocoa, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the eggs and the hot milk, which has been cooked with the cornstarch, sugar and cocoa. Fill a baked crust and when cold spread with whipped cream or a meringue browned in the oven.

SOULS OR CELLS.

By MARY RUSSELL.

Edison says that the brain is but a conglomeration of cells and that there is no soul. When the cells disintegrate and what we call death takes place that is the end of all things!

That is the over-developed intellect. He cannot get away from facts. He must be able to demonstrate by an exact equation the problem of life as he develops and solves a problem of science.

It cannot be done. There is always an unknown quantity in the problem of life which may be represented by x, and will not lend itself to further solution. The power to think may be due to some brain cells animated by that mysterious xth power which we call life. True, if you injure certain portions of the brain, certain things happen. Even life cannot accurately and unaided something which is not there. This an individual may lose his power of speech and still live. He may wipe out all memory and still be able to go about without any apparent outward change.

These conditions are indeed due to some distortion or disturbance of what the scientist calls cells, but suppose a man dies? If the brain be immediately examined there is no great change in the cells—save only the one great and impenetrable mystery that life is lacking. Even before the cells of memory have broken down they have ceased to remember because life has ceased to exist.

What then is this mysterious thing—life? Is it the soul? When we die it is still invisible, but surely it is somewhere. Science says there is no waste. All material resolves itself into its component parts, but when death takes place there is no science which can determine what has become of the divine force which we call life. It is even more tangible than thought, for thought is due to the action of live brain cells.

Too much study has robbed the great scientist of one of the finest joys of life—the joy of the belief that this life is but a beginning. His big brain and wonderful science will not do with him. The cells will decay, but the "ego"—the I—will live on. Some day he will, perhaps, become the student which he has but begun here. With his master grasp of electrical forces he is almost a master of life and death.

Perhaps this belief in the death of the soul is part of the divine plan left in his almost wizard intuitions he should drop the glare of human understanding. It is not part of the great plan that we should know this yet. But the belief that this life is but a great training school for greater evils, and greater knowledge to come, is one that makes man endure what seems great injustice without a cry of bitterness and revenge.

To feel that all the lessons learned here will be of value in some future career and that the soul in its hour of need.

Life would be hard and without a ray of light did not man believe all the cells of which his body is composed were created but to make a receptacle for the spirit—the soul—life!

"Dust thou art, to dust thou shalt return." Death is but a setting free for larger and nobler existence of the part of us which is divine. Many names have been given the high God, but he you Mohammedan or Jew, Christian or heathen, believer in one God or many, weary would be the way and sorrowful the soul that did not believe that some day, somewhere, there would dawn a broader life and a more perfect love.

Though scientists may scoff and the unbeliever may sneer still "In the night of death, hope sees a star, and listening love can hear the music of a wing."

Mnemonics.

Memory improves and strengthens with use. The systematic endeavor to improve the efficiency of the memory is known as mnemonics, and is said to have originated with Simonides, a Greek poet. Most systems of mnemonics include artificial associations as an aid to recollection.

Founder of Physical Geography. Alexander Humboldt may be considered the founder of the science of physical geography. His great work, the "Cosmos," written after he was seventy-six years old, was the first scientific description of the world. It is a work of supreme and abiding value, notwithstanding the fact that many new things have been learned since the time of its publication.

HOW EDGERTON IS HANDLING MATTER

CITY WHERE LAWS RELATIVE TO SALE OF LIQUOR ARE LIVED

WHAT JUDGE NORTH DOES

Good Judgment Used But no Excuses Are Accepted in Lieu of Good Conduct.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Janesville, Nov. 5.—Considerable interest is being manifested throughout the county immediately adjacent to Rock in the method of handling the saloon black listed person, as also the drunk and disorderly, has exemplified in the work being done along these lines by Police Justice North, of Edgerton, Wis.

In considering the matter it is important to bear in mind that the state of Wisconsin permits the sale of intoxicating liquors of all kinds, under proper restrictions however, throughout the state, save only in those localities where local option may govern.

The occupation of the saloon keeper being thus legalized, we can classify his patronage in a general way, as coming under three heads. We have first, the occasional drinker who takes his glass of liquor quietly, often alone, and who attends to his usual avocations without creating even a ripple in the general order of things, and this man never creating any disturbance is of no especial significance in the scope of this article.

The second class consists of the man who is an occasional drinker, the periodical drinker, the man who often becomes boisterous and profane, at times abusive and given to the use of vile language in public places, and a man to whom restraint, and an occasional fine may be necessary to bring to a realizing sense of his duties to the community.

The third class, and the most pitiable of all, is the confirmed inebriate, the saloon hanger on, the man who neglects family and self, working only enough to supply himself with drink, the family dependent on him may go cold and "hungry" and they often do, but he must have his liquor.

This is the class that so often becomes a drain upon local, and county aid organizations, assistance being given in the form of food supplies, fuel, clothing, medical aid and medical care, and if the individual has long enough with no change of habits, the chances are very much in favor of his becoming an inmate of the county house, a real county dependent. Death by some acute disease, or by accident, the latter not at all uncommon, may overtake them before they reach this state.

This man with the uncontrollable appetite for liquor adds in no way to the material resources of the community, and is indeed to be pitied, as he is really more aimed against than against himself.

The great question that seemed to confront Judge North was: Is it possible to throw around this poor fellow protection in any form sufficiently strong so that he can be made self supporting, self respecting, and thus become a member of society? Contrary to the belief of some of his critics the sole effort of the Judge has been to do something for the individual, and each and every case that comes before him is carefully studied with that idea paramount.

It is obvious that so long as this individual can obtain liquor no betterment of his condition can be considered at all probable, and it is self evident then that he must be protected against himself, and the only way possible to do this is to place the man upon the black list, or one of the members thereof is pleased to term it, the "honor roll."

A recent writer has said that there is too much sentimentalism in dealing with the habitual drunkard who is often a danger and a nuisance to the community; he should either be treated as an offender against law and order, or as a sick man and that those who refuse to control their appetites and become inebriated should be confined in jail and made to work under police supervision, or placed under institutional care and treated for disease. With these views the writer of this is in thorough accord.

To most of us throughout Wisconsin the saloon black list has been considered a farce and a dead letter in its observance, and it has been considered for Judge North to demonstrate in no uncertain manner that it was possible for the law covering the saloon black list to be enforced, protecting in a measure the community as well as the individual.

In the city of Edgerton the black listed person is usually placed upon the list by the application or petition of some member of the family, or by the mayor and the aldermanic board in former times when this was done no protection was afforded the individual, for while it was true that the saloonkeeper himself might not sell to him direct, yet there did not seem to be any objection to having his friends purchase it for him and later hand it over to him, and this was often done. The law relating to the furnishing of liquor to a black listed person is very plain, and the penalties attached for an infraction thereof is very severe, but the law was rarely observed.

STIRRING TIMES FIFTY YEARS AGO

Interest in Forthcoming Election Significant Compared with That of Nov. 6, 1860.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—While the country pauses to await the verdict at the polls, the people are interested in the coming election, the interest is compared with the state of the public mind half a century ago. Fifty years ago today the nation was waiting with feverish intensity the result of the most memorable election in the history of the country. The following day, Nov. 6, 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected President. A few weeks later came Buchanan's message that while the South had no right to secede, the Government had no right to use coercion. The year closed with the rising of the curtain for South Carolina's secession from the Union, the ordinance of secession having been passed Dec. 20. Thence forward events hastened toward a crisis, and the spring of 1861 found the nation at war.

RICH NEW LANDS OPENED BY ROAD

PACIFIC COAST EXTENSION OF ST. PAUL RAILWAY PIERCES GREAT COUNTRY.

REGIONS OF OPPORTUNITY

Settlers Are Pouring Into the Western Territory Opened by New Transcontinental Route.

Prior to the year 1850 the country west of the Mississippi river was almost an unpenetrated wilderness. There was not one mile of railroad built in that region and in the prairie states of the Northwest Territory only a few detached lines were to be found. In the southern states, too, railroads were few and far between although at that time the south led in the matter of railway construction.

After the civil war, in the period of 1870 to '80, came the boom in railroad building. One by one different companies ventured across the Mississippi, and gradually extended their lines to the Pacific. Each time that a new transcontinental road was proposed the cry went up that it was the richest folly. And yet, one after another they were rushed to completion and gradually proved that their supporters were not dreamers in vain. But in 1890 everybody believed that there were enough transcontinental settled since the Standing Rock Indian reservation has been opened to homesteaders.

One of the best and most promising districts that has been opened to the American farmer by the St. Paul extension is found in central Montana, bordering the Musselshell river. The soil here is fertile and well adapted to the raising of small grains. The climate is also excellent; mild, clear weather extends beyond Christmas and the winters are tempered by the Chinook winds.

In this country large quantities of semi-bituminous coal are to be found which the railroads are developing in the vicinity of Musselshell and in the valleys of the Hell Gate and Bitter Root rivers there is another country rich in timber, fruit and agriculture, much of the land being under irrigation. The line runs through the greatest white pine region of the country.

In and about the St. Joe river in Idaho. In the state of Washington the road passes through some of the best parts of the state. Fertile farming lands, some of them just being developed, stock raising areas, and some of the best timber country in the world, is the offering of the lands lying tributary to the St. Paul system in that state.

There is a great influx of settlers following the rails of this new road. Now towns are springing up; thousands of acres of land have been thrown open to homesteaders. In four years it has taken into the new country nearly a hundred thousand settlers. As a factor in the development of the country the St. Paul extension Mere Coincidence.

A farmer of Washington county, Maryland, who had had many chickens stolen, set a gun in the chicken house that would be discharged the minute the door was opened. The other night the gun was discharged and the next day three men in the neighborhood were reported confined to their homes by "rheumatism."

FIT THE GROCER

Wife made the Suggestion

A grocer has an excellent opportunity to know the effects of special food on his customers. A Cleveland grocer has a long list of customers that have been helped in health by leaving off coffee and using Postum.

He says, regarding his own experience: "Two years ago I had been drinking coffee and must say that I was almost wrecked in my nerves."

"Particularly in the morning I was as irritable and upset that I could hardly wait until the coffee was served and then I had no appetite for breakfast and did not feel like attending to my store duties."

"One day my wife suggested that inasmuch as I was selling so much Postum there must be some merit in it and suggested that we try it. I took home a package and she prepared it according to directions. The result was a very happy one."

"My nervousness gradually disappeared and today I am all right. I would advise everyone affected in any way with nervousness or stomach troubles, to leave off coffee and use Postum."

"There's a reason," read "The Road to Wellville" in which it is stated that the above letter. A new one appears from time to time. They routes and no one dreamed of another venture of that character. Notwithstanding this now comes the extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road which has just recently been completed, with its western terminus at the foot of Puget Sound, and its eastern starting point at the lower end of Lake Michigan.

The construction of this latest transcontinental system has been one of the greatest engineering triumphs of the decade just closed. It represents the fastest building time that the world has ever known. Less than three years were required to complete the extension of over 1,400 miles, during this period more than 60,000, Dust of Early English Bishop.

A sculptured bust of an early bishop has been discovered in the Cheviot Hills. It is beautifully cut in Sicilian marble, which has been rendered almost chalk by age; and the figure suggests that it may represent Paulinus, the great apostle of Christianity to Northumbria in 625-633 A. D., who stayed in the Cheviot district at Yeavinger, where King Edwin had a palace.—London Telegraph.

On some days more than five miles of new railroad, over all sorts of country, were built. Over the Missouri river a two million dollar steel bridge was built which is regarded by experts as one of the greatest railroad bridges in America.

The extension which has been opened, and the advent of this road to the west, is one of the richest and one of the most important possibilities of the future.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

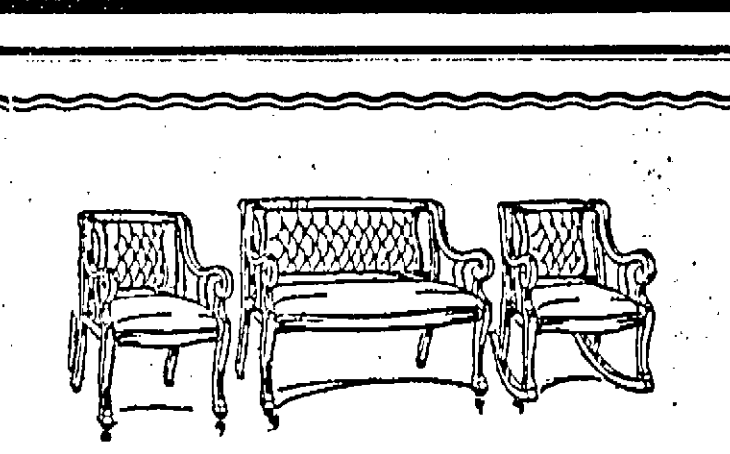

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; hence cure out of ear is caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Nov. 5, 1870.—Nothing. The closing meeting of the State Convention of Young Men's Christian Association, will be held this evening at half past seven o'clock in the Presbyterian church. Addresses will be delivered by members of the Convention and an opportunity will be given for others to take part in the exercises. This being the farewell meeting of the convention, it will be one of much interest. All are invited to be present.

A horse belonging to Mr. C. Wright ran away this afternoon, on West Milwaukee street, throwing Mr. Wright out but not injuring him seriously. Near the Corn Exchange Mr. Frank Midwell of Afton, was crossing the street just as the frightened horse dashed by. He was struck just above the hip by one of the wheels of the buggy and seriously injured.

enforce them, and a careful reading of those laws relating to the illegal selling of liquor convinced him of the truth of his deduction. Briefly stated the manner of handling these cases is as follows: The blacklisted man who is found intoxicated is at once arrested and requested to give to the authorities information as to how, when and where the liquor was obtained. Information in fact that he has been used for the purpose of the party furnishing the liquor, and it is hardly necessary to state that the information is not forthcoming, the request being invariably met with a refusal to divulge anything that might later shut off the source of supply.

SAYS QUININE WILL NOT BREAK A COLD

How to cure the most severe cold and end all gripe-misery in just a few hours.

You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the gripe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.

It is a positive fact that Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the gripe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or gripe.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end gripe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

by hurt, internally it is feared.

A surprise party at the home of Mr. A. C. Kent, residing in the suburbs of the second ward, was greatly enjoyed by about fifty participants, on Thursday.

The Morgan House at West Milton, has the reputation of being one of the best establishments of the kind on the Wisconsin division of the Northwestern road.

Messrs. Withington and Inman of this city have received an order from Iceland for two of their patent steamers for cooking food for stock.

At a special meeting of the common council last evening the hour of meeting was changed from 7:00 to 7:30 o'clock and other business transacted.

After considerable debate it was decided by vote that the next convention of the Y. M. C. A. be held at Whitewater.

This refusal is met by Judge North, by the quiet insistence that he not only wants the information badly, but that he is going to have it, and if after a reasonable time the witness remains refractory his common procedure is to inflict a penalty of from thirty to ninety days in the county jail depending upon the attitude of the individual himself, and also the circumstances in the individual case. The law governing this point is clear and states that the person who refuses to give evidence shall stand committed to the county jail in contempt of court, until he shall so testify, no limitation being given as to the period of such commitment. In one instance only in the many cases that have come up has this method failed to bring to time the recalcitrant witness, and the evidence thus secured in these cases has made it possible to arrest and convict the parties supplying the liquor, the fines in these cases starting in at $10.00 and costs, have rapidly reached $25.00 and costs with prospects of getting still higher should the offender fail to head the storm signals displayed from the court room.

The drinks and disorders from neighboring towns are usually given not less than $10.00 and costs and an occasional jail sentence, and the local disturber of the peace and quiet of our city is subject to the same vigorous treatment as no discrimination can be made, and the local infector gets the same treatment as the outsider.

The sale of liquor to minors being strictly prohibited by law the same method would seem to be inadvisable in these cases, but this prevents the imposing of a jail sentence in the case of a minor, and with them a prospective term in either the state reformatory or the reform school as a penalty for a refusal to testify, brings the desired information.

In these cases it is a matter of congratulation to those who have fought this fight to find that the law in this respect, is in so far as at least as it is possible to determine, strictly observed. It is questionable whether any saloonkeeper in the city of Edgerton is selling liquor to minors.

Judge North assumes that any young man who resorts to the methods used by the blacklisted man for obtaining liquor is either acquiring a dangerous habit in an attempted evasion of the law, or that the use of such methods tend to destroy his self respect, and he soon becomes the saloon habitue, or hanger on.

The old legal statement, "caveat emptor" let the purchaser beware, is holding good in these cases, and the only thing that seems to prevent law infraction is the fear of punishment.

No new theory of handling these cases has been worked out here, the only thing that has been done is to utilize the material that has been so wisely granted by the state and so on and secure convictions under the laws, and they are fairly easy. A concerted movement among the justices of surrounding towns and cities would improve conditions still further. In the following the fines paid into court by the offenders in your own town, one is struck by the ridiculously small amounts assessed against the offenders. A minimum fine and a jail sentence of three days does not mean anything to the hardened offender, for before he has had time to completely sober off he is ready for his next spree, and only persistent hammering at him will do him good.

One point that seems to have escaped the saloonkeeper regarding the Edgerton list is by law as active in Janesville, Madison, or in fact throughout the state as it is at home. Any saloonkeeper who sells to such a blacklisted person is liable to arrest and fine.

Much of the improvement in the saloon moral tone is due to the active efficient work of the chief of police and his assistants, who have had behind them at all times not only the sympathy and support of the best class of people, but they have also had with them working in perfect unison, and insisting upon strict observance of all laws affecting the city, the Fire and Police Board. There has been no hampering of the work of the officers, and it would become somewhat difficult perhaps to carry such a work on successfully unless the board were in thorough accord with officers and court, in their effort to correct the abuses of the law. It is reasonable to suppose that they will continue to extend aid and service when needed. Mr. North has had several invitations to address business men's meetings in different cities in the southern part of the state, some of which he will no doubt accept.

The general adoption of the monodiet (which does not mean living upon any single food) would largely do away with drugs. We are not ready to say, again, that in making a change in diet consideration and deliberation are necessary and results must not be expected too soon, which is one of the reasons why the substitution of materia alimentaria for materia medica must be slow—most people want to be better over night through the vicarious influence of a magic pill, rather than by the knowledge and skill of the physician, applying nature's slow but surer and safer remedies.

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Janesville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, listless, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Janesville testimony to prove it.

Benjamin Schaller, 269 S. River St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I felt all run down. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, those symptoms of kidney complaint disappeared and I enjoyed much better health. I could not be induced to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills were I not certain of their merit."
